

Multimedia channels

Information transmission channels supported by digital technology and optimized for the transmission of multiple format content, for example combining audio, video and text. The terms 'multimedia' or 'rich media' denote the comprehensive combination of different media such as sound and moving image in a single piece of content.