

Languages & the Media 2022 - call for papers EXTENDED DEADLINE 28/2

With big hopes that the 2022 edition of Languages & the Media will be held in presence in Berlin, a call for papers is announced.

The conference will be held under the overall theme Media Localization: Welcome back to the Future? and will focus on the trends and developments that have emerged through the challenges brought about by the pandemic and the newest practices and technological innovations driving us into the future. The conference themes include among others: remote working, talent crunch and talent retention, proliferating platforms, machine translation implementation, AI for subtitling and dubbing, digital accessibility, experimental research, access and inclusion, policy and videogame localization.

For the full list of themes and subthemes click here.

EXTENDED DEADLINE until February 28, 2022 to submit a proposal through the online form.

It is currently open the OOONA contest which will grant the winner a paid trip to Berlin for participating in the conference:

<https://oona.net/landing/oona-contest-2022>

For any questions on the submission or session formats, please write to proposals@languages-media.com.